THE BATTLE AT PING YANG.

Japanese Reported Defeated by the Chinese.

LONDON, Aug 25 A despatch from Shanghai to a news agency here says a letter received in Che Foo on the 24th, from Chemulpo, Corea, reasserts that the Japanese were defeated by the Chinese at Ping Yang

Thirteen Japanese transports, convoyed by nineteen war ships, arrived in the Estuary of Tastor Kang on the 18th inst. and landed a force of six thousand men, who advanced upon Ping Yang When midway between the landing place and their objective point the Japanese were attacked by the Chinese cavalry, who succeeded in dividing the advancing column into two parts Thereupon the Chinese artillery poured a heavy fire into the Japanese ranks, creating almost a panic The Japanese retreated in disorder to the shore, where the advance of the Chinese was checked by the fire from the guns of the Japanese fleet The Japanese lost 1 500 men

The letter does not mention the retreat of the Japanese troops from Chungho, from which place according to Chinese reports they had been driven

Nevertheless, it is believed the Chinese are in possession of Chungho, as it is stated that a council of war was held there on August 20 when it was decided to attack the main Japanese force, which it preventing the Chinese advance upon Seoul It is reported that the Japanese are re-embarking their heavy baggage in Ping Yang inlet

BOAT CAPSIZED

Three Persons Drowned

WALTHAM, Mass, Aug 25 A canoe containing Robert Thomas, aged 35, Benjamin Kershaw, 38, and the latter's son John, aged 8 years, capsized in the river this morning, and all three were drowned The occupants of the canoe had a dog with them and in trying to throw the dog overboard the frail craft was upset. The accident was witnessed by a number of people on Moody street bridge, but the three unfortunates sank so quickly that no assistance could be rendered The boy's body was recovered within a few minutes, but efforts to resuscitate him were unavailing Thomas was a lather by occupation and has a wife and one child, who are at present in New Hampshire Kershaw was, until about three weeks ago, a foreman in the employ of the Boston Manufacturing Co He leaves a widow and two children, the latter a boy and girl about 12 years of age

DESPERATE ROBBERS

Attempt to Rob the Crew of a Western Freight Train

DEERFIELD, Ill, Aug 25 Two masked men attempted to rob the crew of a freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul road here last night Two special officers of the railway company that were on the train came to the rescue of the crew and in the running fight with revolvers that followed, a special officer was killed. Both robbers escaped and as far as is known neither of them was seriously injured Both of them, however, were thought to have been struck by bullets from the revolvers of the officers, but it was so dark that they could not be seen after they left the train

The freight train had stopped for water near the Deerfield station, and the conductor was alone in the caboose when the robbers made their appearance They walked into the caboose with revolvers in their hands and ordered the conductor to give up any valuables in his possession He hesitated, when one of them knocked him down, and both began to search his pockets The conductor resisted them and his shouts attracted the attention of the special police who had left the caboose a few minutes before to look out for thieves that have been stealing from trains in that vicinity They hurried back to the caboose and arrived just in time to see the two robbers jump from the rear of the caboose.

So you will remember it. When you are attacked with Cramps, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Diarrhoea or are accidently injured PAIN-KILLER will give you instant and permanent relief The power of Pain-Killer is not limited to any particular brand of pain. For Meritorious Conduct in Rescuing Crew of Schooner Alton S Marshall

GLOUCESTER, Mass, Aug. 25 Captain John Marshall of this city, who was wrecked in midocean last March, while on a voyage to Iceland, in the schooner Alton S Marshall, and was rescued by Captain Wilthire of the British steamer Mowhawk, received a letter today from his rescuer in which the writer says that when in London on his last trip he and his chief officer were lunched by a committee of the Ship Mariners' and Fishermens' Society, after which an award of £10 to the captain and £4 to Chief Officer Stone was made by Vice-Admiral Adams who had command of the Channel squadron last year. They were also presented with other testimonials for their meritorious conduct in rescuing the Marshall's crew

LABOR MATTERS

The Situation at New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 25. There are no new developments in the industrial situation here to-day. After one full week the trouble is no nearer a solution than it was the day it started. The Wamsutta, Bristol, Pierce, Acushnet, Hathaway and Potomska have paid off their help to the last cent, except the Wamsutta, which will pay for stock in the looms Monday. What money the operatives have they are husbanding with great care, and preparing for a long struggle. Liquor dealers report dull business.

Meat sales have decreased and the plainest kind of existence will prevail among the operatives. No more money will be received till two weeks after starting up the mills and no one can guess when that will be It is understood that several mills have advance orders, but will refrain from resuming work till the Manufacturers Association decides to do so unanimously.

STRUCK A SINK HOLE

Four were Drowned While Attempting to Ford a River

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug 25. Last night, William Barrett, Ex-County Commissioner, his wife and three children, while riding in a spring wagon attempted to ford the Scioto river, twelve miles north of here. The team struck a sink hole and all the occupants of the wagon were drowned, except a twelve-year-old boy, who managed to get ashore.

STEAMER BURNED.

Occupants Barely Escape With Their Lives.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 25. The wrecked steamer City of Portsmouth on Little Aqua Vitae ledge was burned to the water's edge shortly after three this morning. On board were Capt. Geo. A. Whitney and wife, the engineer, fireman and two deck hands. The occupants were barely able to escape to a tug, which was lying by to haul the vessel off. They saved nothing.

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Explosion in a Mine Near Seattle, Wash.

Thirty-Seven Miners Reported Killed.

TACOMA, Wash, Aug. 25 Thirty seven miners of mixed nationalities were killed yesterday afternoon by an explosion in the Oregon Improvement Company's coal mine, at Franklin, King County 34 miles southeast of Seattle The miners were trying to save the mines from destruction by fire when the explosion occurred

Several of those caught were not instantly killed, and a desperate attempt was at once made by their comrades to rescue them from the flames The entire mining community of Franklin aided to flood the slope 62 in which the bodies of the miners lay

Franklin is a coal mining town on the west slope of Cascade mountains and the usual heartrendering scenes were enacted about the entrance of the mines when a list of the killed and missing was made out This is the mining district into which colored miners were brought two years ago at the time of the strike When the bodies of dead men were reached many were found to be on a line, as if simultaneously overcome by smoke Some had been smothered and were not cut or even bruised All were dead before assistance reached them

At three o clock the last of the thirty seven bodies was recovered and then the people began to quiet down The origin of the fire in breast 62 is supposed to be due to spontaneous combustion caused by refuse and screenings in the bottom of the breast shocking and catching fire Supt Ramsey says he will bulk the sixth level and perhaps the fifth level and hermetically seal them, thus shutting off the air and smothering the fire.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Defying Great Britain

LONDON, Aug 25 The government has received a despatch, confirming the report that the British consul at Bluefields, Mr Hatch, has been imprisoned by Nicaraguans.

The Standard comments thus upon the news Despite the fact that the offence is of the gravest nature the idea of Nicaraguas defying Great Britain, also the way in which Mr Hatch informed the officers of his capture, suggest the comic opera We may be confident that the United States will not hesitate to support a demand for satisfaction for this outrage

PEOPLE TERRORIZED.

Prominent Americans Arrested in Bluefields.

The Foreign Residents Greatly Alarmed.

NEW ORLEANS, La, Aug 25 Advices from Bluefields, under date of Aug 19, per steamship Gussie, confirm the story of the arrests at Bluefields The Americans arrested were all merchants of prominence. They were threatened with confiscation of all their property and it is believed the arrests were made with this end in view.

There is consternation among the foreign residents at Bluefields, and planters have ordered their people discharged and business is temporarily abandoned

The leading members of Clarence's cabinet have been arrested, and Clarence would have been too had he not taken passage to Jamaica, with others, under British protection

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The President's Plans

WASHINGTON, Aug 25 The President has no plans about leaving Washington when Congress adjourns, said Private Secretary Thurber to day Mr. Cleveland will leave town Wednesday morning and go direct to Gray Gables unless he should agree to remain over until Thursday morning to participate in the encampment of the uniformed rank of Knights of Pythias, which begins Monday.

Death of Daniel Stickney

[Presque Isle Star Herald]

Daniel Stickney for many years a resident of this village and both by force and vigor of his editorial work, and the strong individual traits that marked him as a man, one of the most familiar public figures that the history of our county has thus far furnished, passed away on the 16th inst in Auburn, where he was living in the home of Mr Geo M Ince

Daniel Stickney was born in Hallowell, Me, Nov 26th, 1804 being the eldest of seven children When he was two years old the family removed to Chesterville, then Chester plantation of but ten families

His education was limited to that offered by the district school as it existed in this State seventy five years ago, a meagre privilege when compared with that which is within the reach of the youth of to-day, but one which sufficed to nourish and stimulate to activity the robust faculties and strong traits of character with which Nature had endowed the subject of this sketch At the age of eighteen he taught a school in the town of Wilton for eight weeks, for which he received $10 up to that time the largest sum of money he had ever possessed

A portion of this money he turned over to his father, and with the rest bought books for a brief course of study at the Farmington Academy

Between 1824 and 1848 he taught school, working at intervals at the carpenter's trade and making one voyage at sea to the West Indies during the time

Subsequently he became connected with newspapers as agent and correspondent For a period of 25 years after the year 1843 he was a lay preacher of the Universalist faith In this calling he had a characteristic contempt for forms and creeds, being entirely a law unto himself in the matter of scriptural construction. He finally abandoned preaching, evidently dissatisfied with its rewards, his blunt explanation of this step in his auto-biography, being that he was entirely dissatisfied with the practice the world has fallen into of paying $10 to a lawyer for managing a petty case in a justice court, when the preacher is requested to spend the same amount of time to attend a funeral, generally for nothing, and never for over $5

The year 1861 found him in the then young and wilderness region of Aroostook, where he engaged in editorial work on the Aroostook Pioneer, published by W S Gilman In 1863 he founded the 'Sunrise' at Presque Isle, a staunch and uncompromising advocate of Republicanism, which he conducted for fourteen years While not pretentious in size Maine journalism has not seen a sheet of more positiveness and courage of conviction, more responsive to current public thought and sentiment, more aggressive in attack upon what the editor disapproved of, and more vigorous in defence of the cause he espoused, than the Presque Isle Sunrise in the hands of Daniel Stickney In fact, it was a sheet charged in almost every line and sentence with the virile and positive individuality of the man who published it and as such commanded wide and respectful attention, even where it provoked bitter resentment and opposition A man of less resource in ready command of facts touching public affairs, past and present, and of less keen logic in his inferences and deductions from the store of information he possessed, with a habit and temperament like that of Mr Stickney, would very soon have been crushed under the opposition he was ever inviting

But with mental forces always in 'line of battle," and in greater or less heat of conflict and contention, he always ably and, in general, successfully maintained his convictions and opinions

Daniel Stickney in his day made a distinct impression upon public thought and sentiment not only in his county but in his State. Very largely the influence he exerted was wholesome and beneficial In war times his strong and earnest appeals in behalf of the Union and its need was no small factor in awakening patriotic sentiment, and placing Aroostook where she is on the nation s "roll of honor"

The Republican party in Aroostook can credit much of its strength today to convictions which had their inception in the seed he planted in its soil.

Imbued with pride in the county of his adoption, with a comprehension of its resources, its possibilities and its needs, his positive and able advocacy of its interests did much to call attention to its importance and promote its growth and development As a new region, in the infancy of its development, it needed just the championship that was furnished by this rugged and vigorous advocate whom no opposition could daunt, and no hardship and privation of pioneer experience could dishearten in his bold and confident advocacy of local interests

Daniel Stickney had his failings, as marked, perhaps, as his strong and admiral traits But they were infirmities that the world can well afford to forget and forgive, for they left few, if any, legacies of lasting wrong or injury, while his influence for good is a leaven that has worked and will continue to work potently for the welfare of this great county

It May Do as Much for You

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a Severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called Kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottle. At Ara Warren's Drug Store.

The people quickly recognize merit, and this is the reason the sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are continually increasing. Hood's is "on top." 4

The genuine Angostura Bitters, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegbert & Sons, imparts a delicious flavor to all cold drinks, and prevents all summer diseases. aug24 FMW&W.

Which shall it be? A season of exile from your family at a great expense at health resorts, or a positive cure for that lung and throat trouble in a few days at home. Adamson's Cough Balsam does the latter for you. aug21 d&w

Over sixty Italians are the charges of the city of Waterville having come there because the Italian patrons who employed them left them without money or bread It seems that a contract which was taken by Reda to clear a section of the Wiscasset & Quebec railroad could not possibly be made to pay even with the best workmen The Italians were not handy with the axes They were on the ground several weeks before work could be begun Reda was running up bills for provisions which were left unpaid and was charging the men high prices for board It is possible that a very small amount may now be due them Some means will be taken to supply the Italians with means to reach New York The men were peaceable and quiet

One of the interesting operations now going on in Maine is the laying of a big water main across the Kennebec at Bath in order to supply that city from a lake on the other side Two lighters are operated by steam are now employed in laying a 16 inch pipe in lengths of 12 feet Between the lighters are launching ways 60 feet long The lengths of pipe are fastened together with socket ball joints that admit of bending the last length upward 4 degrees Each section is jointed hermetically to the others on the lighters and then lowered overboard It will be seen that these socketed pipes constitute a huge chain that is constantly lengthened and lowered overboard It is slow work and requires the greatest care When the tide is going out the current is so strong that very little can be done

Hard Work and Indigestion go Hand in Hand.

Concentrated thought continued in robs the stomach of necessary blood and this is also true of hard physical labor

When a five horse power engine is made to do ten horse power work something is going to break Very often the hard worked man coming from the field or the office will bolt his food in a few minutes which will take hours to digest Then too many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a keg of nails would be in a fire under a boiler The ill used stomach refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and nerves The nerves are weak and ready to break because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood finally the ill used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man attempts to find rest in bed

The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full enjoyment of life and healthy digestion when he takes Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal and Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify enrich and vitalize the blood The Pellets are tiny sugar coated pills made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness constipation and slothfulness or torpor of the liver then the Medical Discovery should be taken in teaspoonful doses to increase the blood and enrich it It has a peculiar effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels toning up and strengthening them for all time The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood coursing through the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened not deadened or put to sleep as the so called celery compounds and nerve mixtures do—but refreshed and fed on the food they need for health If you suffer from indigestion dyspepsia nervousness and any of the ills which come from impure blood and disordered stomach you can cure yourself with Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country

A Difference of Opinion.

The Democrats have not much heart in the campaign now pending in this State, but a few of the Democratic editors feel obliged to make a show of party interest. The situation, however, is so involved from a Democratic standpoint that as a rule when these editors do open their mouths they only succeed in getting their foot in it. For instance after ruminating for some time over the question, the editor of the Belfast Age, a former Democratic candidate for Governor, amusingly remarks:

The bitter and acrimonious fight upon certain features of the schedule has given the impression to many Democrats that their party in Congress was recreant to the trust imposed upon it by the overwhelming victory of 1892, but a careful investigation and comparison of the Senate bill with the Wilson bill as it passed the House, will satisfy all that the difference between them is but trifling.

There is another Democrat on record concerning the present attitude of his party who seems to take a different view of the situation. We refer to one Grover Cleveland, the Democratic President of the United States. For the information of the editor of the Age we quote President's Cleveland's views as follows:

It must be admitted that no tariff measure can accord with Democratic principles and promises, or bear a genuine Democratic badge that does not provide for free raw materials. In these circumstances it may well excite our wonder that Democrats are willing to depart from this the most Democratic of all tariff principles, and that the inconsistent absurdity of such a proposed departure should be emphasized by the suggestion that the wool of the farmer be put on the free list, and the protection of tariff taxation be placed around the iron ore and coal of corporations and capitalists. How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principle?—Cleveland to Wilson.

There is no cause for mistaking or misapprehending the feeling and the temper of the rank and file of the Democracy. They are downcast under the assertion that their party fails in ability to manage the government, and they are apprehensive that efforts to bring about tariff reform may fail; but they are much more downcast and apprehensive in their fear that Democratic principles may be surrendered.—Cleveland to Wilson.

The Democracy of the land plead most earnestly for the speedy completion of the tariff legislation which their representatives have undertaken; but they demand not less earnestly that no stress of necessity shall tempt those they trust to the abandonment of Democratic principles.—Cleveland to Wilson.

Every true Democrat and every sincere tariff reformer knows that this bill in its present form as it will be submitted to the conference, falls far short of the consummation for which we have long labored, for which we have suffered defeat without discouragement, which in its anticipation gave us a rallying cry in our day of triumph, and which in its promise of accomplishment is so interwoven with Democratic pledges and Democratic success, that our abandonment of the cause or the principles upon which it rests means party perfidy and party dishonor.—Cleveland to Wilson.

Bunkoed Farmers.

William Stanley, a hitherto prosperous farmer of Marion County, Indiana, has consulted a lawyer with reference to bringing a suit for damages against Congressman Bynum, based on the fact that wheat did not advance to $1.25 a bushel when Mr. Cleveland was elected, as Mr. Bynum said in his speeches that it would. At the time these powerful speeches were made wheat was selling at from 80 to 90 cents a bushel. Mr. Bynum alleged that President Harrison was a hoodoo and as such was keeping wheat away below what it ought to be. "Elect Mr. Cleveland," said the Democratic Congressman, "and you farmers will see wheat bounding up to $1.25, with a demand that you can't supply even at those figures."

Farmer Stanley's petition sets forth that, relying on the Democrats carrying the country and, believing fully the promises made by Mr. Bynum, he sowed a large amount of wheat and in two seasons found himself with 2,300 bushels in his granaries.

Instead of wheat going up after Mr. Cleveland's election it went down and he was forced to sell in 1893 at 60 cents a bushel and in 1894 at 45 cents a bushel. Therefore he is aggrieved and wellnigh bankrupt, and it is his present intention to sue Bynum, the Democratic deceiver, for the difference between the price promised and the price actually received.

While Farmer Stanley is justified for feeling deeply wronged, we are afraid he will not be able to recover actual money damages. But the farmers have their remedy at the ballot box, and that is where they should and, as a rule, will appeal rather than to the jury box.

The Dilemma of Democracy.

The New York Press says: Democratic attempts to cover up the alliance between the Administration and the Sugar Trust by attacking the Republican party for alleged friendship to the Trust are supremely foolish. The Republican party has been absolutely consistent in adhering to the policy of free sugar for the people and a bounty for all American producers. This policy cheapened sugar fifty per cent. to every consumer, founded a splendid beet sugar industry in the West and gave a signal impetus to the cane sugar industry in Louisiana. The Republicans in Congress have firmly upheld the principle of free sugar. On the day when the cowardly Democrats of the House accepted the bill of "perfidy and dishonor" the Republicans voted with practical unanimity for the removal of the Trust duties on sugar. In the Senate the Republicans voted for the Manderson amendment making sugar free and restoring the bounty. A free sugar bill would probably have passed that body if Secretary Carlisle, seeing the Trust's danger, had not come to its rescue by declaring that the abolition of the Sugar Trust tax would make the government bankrupt.

If Democratic organs are wise they will keep silent in regard to the concern which has apparently bought the Democracy outright. The shameful facts are so evident that organic twaddle about them only makes the situation worse for the Democrats. Nothing can explain away Mr. Carlisle's action in writing a sugar schedule especially for the Trust's benefit, Mr. Cleveland's letter to Chairman Wilson demanding that the Trust's privilege of plunder should not be interfered with, and Mr. Carlisle's later missive instructing Democratic Senators that they must not assail the bargain which the Administration had made with the sugar monopoly. These three performances stand out as enduring monuments of Democratic dishonor; while, as if the profits already secured to the Trust were not enough, the President, by refraining from action on the tariff bill, is further enriching the monopoly at the rate of $300,000 a day. Democratic managers in this fall's contest will find the increase of two cents in the cost of every pound of sugar an invincible argument against the Democratic party.

The Campaign in Aroostook.

[From the Presque Isle Star Herald, Aug. 24.]

Hon. C. A. Boutelle opened the Republican campaign in this section by a speech before a very large and enthusiastic audience in Perry's Opera House Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding the present busy season with our farmers there was a crowd present which filled the large hall, and attested the feeling which now pervades the public mind of this county regarding pending political issues, which have been given a mighty sharp edge for Aroostook people by reason of the manner in which the Democracy has sought to sacrifice, and in spite of Republican opposition, have succeeded in damaging our great interests. Mr. Boutelle was introduced by C. F. Daggett, Esq., in a brief speech, and when the speaker stepped forward he received a welcome, in hearty and protracted applause, which showed the intelligent appreciation our people have of the distinguished ability and high courage with which Congressman Boutelle has advocated the immediate interests of his constituents, and also fought out manfully and triumphantly during the recent session the vital issues and principles of patriotism, sound statesmanship and good government on the floor of Congress.

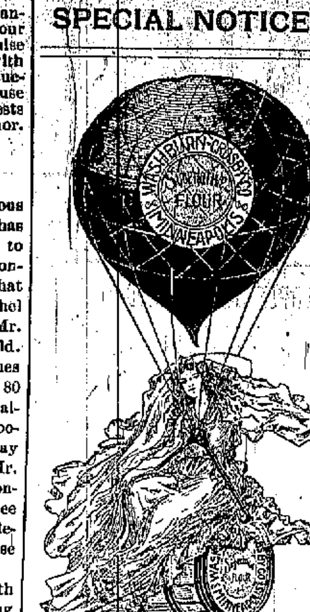

Mr. Boutelle began by calling attention to the illustrations the past year has furnished the country of the utter incompetency of the Democracy to administer the trust, which the people, in an hour of blind folly and infatuation, had committed to that party.

He contrasted the condition of things now prevailing with the high prosperity of the people at the time he last addressed a Presque Isle audience two years ago. When it fell under the ban of Democratic ascendency the collapse of the fabric of prosperity built up under Republican rule, was something appalling in its features of ruin and distress.

The speaker's chief attention was directed to the tariff question, and his review of the treatment of that subject, from its inception in the Democratic platform to its final consummation in the Gorman-Brice-Sugar-Trust enormity now awaiting executive approval, was a masterly and scathing analysis of Democratic hypocrisy, inconsistency and lack of ability and principle.

The close of the speech was enlivened by a colloquy between the speaker and a prohibition seeker after truth in the audience, which, while it utterly discomfited the questioner, must have cleared his brain of many third party sophistries and served both to bring out and illustrate the astonishing reserve force of Congressman Boutelle in the exigencies of public debate, and to turn the clear, white light of truth and common-sense logic on the temperance question in Maine and the Republican party's relation to that vital issue of good government. Inasmuch as this is a matter which perplexes some really well-meaning people, and as this short, sharp and decisive impromptu discussion was full of nuts for third party teeth to crack, we will endeavor to print a report of it in our next issue.

DESPERADOES CAPTURED

Officers Exchange Several Volleys With Them

CHICAGO, Aug 25 Two desperadoes who killed detective Owens of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul Railway, while resisting their attempted hold-up of a freight train on that road last night, were captured this morning in Wiggin's wood about 20 miles north of this city

Not until after a pitched battle did they permit themselves to be taken

STRAPPED AND HUNGRY

Italians Assisted to Boston by Countrymen

AUGUSTA, Me, Aug 26 Seventeen Italians from the Wiscasset & Quebec contractors gang arrived here Saturday penniless and hungry and were cared for at the city alms house. To-day the Italians of Hallowell and Augusta bought tickets and sent them to Boston by steamer. Contractor Mills was in the city to day and showed receipts showing that he made all payments to his men The Italian boss, Frank W Reda, appears to be the one who defrauded the men He has disappeared

AN AWFUL DISASTER.

A Fearful Cyclone Sweeps Along the Sea of Azof.

Entire Villages Swept Into The Sea by its Fury.

Believed that at Least a Thousand Lives Were Lost.

ST PETERSBURG, Aug. 25 A terribly disastrous cyclone swept along the shore of the Sea of Azof to-day, working immense damage.

In some instances entire villages were swept into the sea

Many steamers were sunk or driven ashore and wrecked, and it is believed that at least a thousand persons perished

HIGH HANDED ACTIONS.

Nicaraguans Defy United States and Great Britain.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug 25 From information received by the steamer Gussie, of the Southern Pacific line, which arrived last night from Bluefields, the Nicaraguan government has defied the governments of both the United States and Great Britain and has taken into custody representatives of both nations.

When the Gussie left Bluefields, last Sunday, the people of that town were hourly anticipating that the Nicaraguans would attempt further indignities and threaten the peace of the place by placing the remainder of the American and native population under arrest

The town, and in fact the entire reservation, is bereft of the semblance of either American or English protection, and the merchants and others doing business there are greatly alarmed The officers of the Gussie being familiar with the condition of affairs in the disturbed country, consider that the crisis is at hand and the time for action on the part of the United States is now or never

The men who have been placed under arrest are those whom the Nicaraguans wanted conveyed to Greytown, where they are to be accorded the privilege of a trial They are not in any manner connected with

of the Mosquito chief Clarence, and are all men of prominence on the reservation. To this fact is ascribed their arrest, as Nicaraguans are said to become owners of the property of prisoners

If the men are found guilty, or are so presumed by the tribunal before which they will probably appear, their property will go to help fill the depleted coffers of the oppressors of the reservation, and if the prisoners are not sentenced to be executed by the Nicaraguans they will be ordered from the country and will leave their property in the hands of their captors

This is said to be one of the stakes for which the Nicaraguans are playing, and it is said that if the powers do not interfere, the destinies of the people at present in the town of Bluefields are entirely in the hands of the soldiers of the republic

The men who have been made prisoners by the Nicaraguans, and who at the time the Gussie left were in custody at the bluff, are W H Brown, the agent of the Southern Pacific Company, a Canadian, Capt George Wiltbank, an American planter, Capt Brown Rick, of the steamer President Carzeso, E D Hatch, English vice consul, Simclapton,

An American

and resident of New Orleans; H C Ingram a planter, partner of John Wilson & Co, of New Orleans, John Taylor, native planter, Markham Taylor, John O Thomas, S A Hodgson, George Hodgson and Washington Glover, native merchants, Charles Patterson, vice president of the Mosquito reservation John Cuthbert, attorney general of the reservation

These men were arrested without reason or justice, the cause of the arrest being stated by the soldiers as aiding and abetting the uprising of the natives Several other Americans are in hiding and the Nicaraguans are making desperate efforts to locate their whereabouts that they may be also placed in custody.

When the Gussie was ready to sail for the United States the commander of the Columbia sent an officer of the ship on board a Southern Pacific vessel with dispatches which he desired to convey to the Secretary of the Navy in this country in person He came fully prepared to make the voyage, but the captain of the Gussie and the agent of the line decided that it would be an infringement of the quarantine regulations to carry passengers and refused to permit the officer to make the trip

The despatches were then sent by the captain of the Gussie and will be in the hands of the Secretary of the Navy not later than Sunday evening They contain a full account of the occurrences in the reservation and may contain the reasons of the commander of the Columbia for refusing to accord protection to the Americans in that country

THREE PERSONS KILLED

A Frightful Accident Near Worcester

WORCESTER, Mass, Aug 25 A frightful accident, resulting in the death of three persons, occurred on the New York & New England railroad at what is known as Stillwater bridge, about a mile south of South Worcester, this afternoon

The victims were John Cooper, 54 years old, his wife, Anna, aged 52, and her mother, Mrs Emma Matthews aged 65 of Thompsonville, Ct They had spent the afternoon picking elder berries along the sides of the railroad and were on their way home

Mr Cooper stopped for a moment, but the women kept on and were part way across the narrow bridge when the passenger train which leaves this city at 4 55 o'clock thundered around a sharp curve a little way north of the bridge The women became paralyzed with fear and could not move. Cooper jumped to their assistance and had just reached them when the pilot of the engine struck the party and hurled the three off the bridge to the river 25 feet below

When Engineer Walker discovered the women he reversed the engine and applied the air brakes, stopping the train before it had gone twice its length, but not until it had done its deadly work

Cooper was thrown head first onto a mass of rocks, which form part of the foundation for the bridge abutment, and his death was instantaneous, as was that of his wife, who was thrown into the water, which is very shallow at that point, Mrs Matthews was also thrown into the water and was alive when removed to the bank, but she died almost immediately All were terribly mangled.

The victims of the accident had no business on the bridge

QUIET IN HONOLULU

Registration of Voters Throughout Hawaiian Islands

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 25 The steamer Australia arrived from Honolulu this morning. A press correspondent, writing under date of Aug 18, says

"Since the last despatches were sent there has been absolute quiet in public affairs in Honolulu. There has been no indication of the slightest scheme or effort of the Queen's party to disturb the government, who are waiting for the expected recognition of the republic from Washington and from European powers.

"No day is yet fixed for the autumn election of the Legislature. The registration of voters is actively proceeding throughout the island. A larger proportion of native voters is registering than did for the May elections.

"The Queen and her adherents continue diligently to inform the people that President Cleveland is about to restore her. The natives very commonly credit this assertion, and hesitate to take the oath against the monarchy.

"The British warship Champion still remains in Honolulu harbor, detained in response to urgent appeals from the British residents. The absence of any American warship since Aug. 12 has not been attended with the slightest inconvenience. The government expresses its satisfaction at the opportunity to demonstrate its strength and security of the present political situation."

DETERMINED TO DIE.

Old Man Holds Himself Under Water.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 26. Samuel Patterson, aged 74, of Lynnfield, walked into Craig's pond this morning and drowned himself, holding his head under water until dead. He was partially demented.

ELEVEN MILLIONS INVOLVED.

United States to be Sued For Sugar Bounty of 1894-5.

Louisiana Sugar Growers Take Measures to Recover.

Have Complied With Law and Propose to Have Bounty.

WASHINGTON, Aug 26. Judge Morris Marks, of New Orleans, representing a number of Louisiana sugar planters, is here for the purpose of entering suits in the United States court of claims for the recovery of the sugar bounty for the year 1894-5. The petition recites the provision of the McKinley law, that "on and after July 1, 1891, until July 1st, 1905,' certain bounties shall be paid growers of sugar, upon certain prescribed conditions as to the filing of bonds and taking out of licenses, etc

It recites that for the present year all these formalities have been complied with and formally accepted by the United States, that under provisions of the section quoted the planters enlarged the areas of sugar planted, secured advances from brokers on crops, and demand that the United States shall carry out their part of the contract The total amount of bounty expected to accrue on this year's crop is about eleven million dollars.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

New Difficulty in the Tariff Bungle

WASHINGTON, Aug 25 The new tariff was the subject of elaborate consideration to-day by the President, Secretary Carlisle and Atty-Gen Olney New difficulties in the interpretation of the bill are constantly coming to light, and Secretary Carlisle had a consultation lasting for several hours with the attorney general as to the proper interpretation of the doubtful paragraphs. Both the secretary and the attorney-general are desirous to make rulings as liberal as possible to the importers and the public, provided the interests of the government are not sacrificed.

Many of the doubtful questions will never be finally determined until passed upon by the supreme court, but the immediate action of the customs officials will be regulated by the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury There is now some hope that goods transferred to the free list by the new law, and now in bonded warehouses, will be allowed withdrawal from bond free of duty

The language of Sec 20 of the act of June 10, 1890, as subsequently amended by Sec 54 of the act of Oct 1, 1890, is regarded as implying entry at reduced rates or free of duty of articles on which the rates have been changed by the

New Legislation

The matter of postponing the reduction on all classes of woolen goods until January 2, may also be affected by one of the acts of the 51st Congress. The Dingley worsted bill, approved May 9, 1890, enacted "that the Secretary of the Treasury be and hereby is authorized and directed to classify as woolen cloths all imports of worsted cloth, whether known under the name of worsted cloth or under the names of worsted or diagonals, or otherwise"

This act is still in force and apparently justifies the classification of all articles in the woolen schedule of the new law under the general heading "manufactures of wool" The act is limited to cloths, but it is chiefly in regard to cloths that difficulty has been suggested under the new law

If the provision at the close of the woolen schedules "that the reduction of the rates of duty herein provided for manufactures of wool shall take effect Jan 1, 1895," can be extended under the Dingley act to cover "all manufactures composed wholly or in part of wool, worsted, the hair of the camel, goat, alpaca, or other animals, including such as have India rubber as a component material, ' as set forth in paragraph 283, very little difficulty would probably result from the interpretation of the woolen schedule

Secretary Carlisle declined to announce this afternoon what his actions would be in these matters, but will issue a comprehensive letter of instruction to customs officers on Monday

RECALCITRANT WITNESSES

MANY PERSONS INJURED

A Trolley Car Runs Away and Is Capsized

NEWARK, N J, Aug 26 A trolley car on the line between Orange and Eagle Rock, while descending a steep grade this evening became unmanageable and dashed into a curve at a terrific rate of speed, breaking the flange on one of the forward wheels

The car, in which were 80 people, left the track and capsized down a slight embankment. Broken glass flew in all directions and the excited occupants were thrown into a confused mass Fifty or more passengers were injured

Advised to Take a Trip to Europe

BALTIMORE, Aug 26 Senator Gorman's physicians advise him to leave for Europe at the earliest possible day, not only for the benefit of the sea voyage but for the purpose of taking treatment at one of the German spas His health is declared to be very precarious

FOREIGN NEWS.

Vigilant May Race This Week

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug 25 No outward sign was apparent to-day to show that the Vigilant had ever received the serious injury which it has taken exactly a week to repair, save that a great section of new lead is not yet painted Practically all is ready for hanging the centreboard There is nothing to prevent the Vigilant from sailing at Torquay, if the entry is made by Tuesday night, and as Howard Gould telegraphed to-day that he would join the yacht on Tuesday morning, the probabilities are that she will start that day for the west coast. Whether she will sail at Plymouth is, however, uncertain, as George Gould some weeks ago expressed a disinclination to sail her over such an unsatisfactory course as he considers it to be

ATHENS, Aug 26. An earthquake shook Corinth, Chalus, Zante and Atalanta yesterday morning. The damage to property is slight as far as known and nobody was killed.

Officers to be Beheaded—Reported Massacre.

LONDON, Aug. 26. A despatch from Tien Tsin to the Times says An imperial edict which has just appeared condemns the officers responsible for the recent outrages on the missionaries and orders that they be beheaded. Actual criminals are rebuilding the chapels and a liberal compensation will be given the relatives of the victims. Li Hung Chang expresses regret to the British minister.

It is reported in Yokohama that fifty Japanese camphor makers in Formosa were massacred.

NO FURTHER LEGISLATION!

Congressmen Only Waiting for [Tuesday's Adjournment.

Some Rather Peculiar Incidents of the Closing Days.

Republicans Spoil Democratic Plans on Campaign Speeches.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 If there ever had been a lingering hope of more legislation during the remainder of this session of Congress, the hope was dispelled by a remark made behind closed doors Friday afternoon by Mr. Quay, that it was to be understood that there should be no more legislation at this session in connection with contested matters This was acquiesced in.

The closing days of the session have been marked by a number of peculiar incidents One has been transaction of legislative business behind closed doors Senators of both parties have a number of measures that require only the final action of the Senate to enact them, but the Republicans were not willing to provide a quorum nor would they permit business to proceed in open session by unanimous consent, for fear the Democrats would, by some means,

Find Opportunity

to make the campaign speeches they had prepared For this reason legislative business against which no objection was made was transacted behind closed doors by general consent Thursday and Friday Under this arrangement, no speeches could be made and the Record was prevented from becoming the vehicle for the dissemination of alleged campaign literature

The Republicans were not the only ones who offered objections to the consideration of contested matters. Mr Blanchard effectually blocked, for this session at least, any effort to change the rules and provide for closure. Mr Blackburn wanted to have his committee sit during recess and consider many amendments to the rules referred to the committee He asked consent to this arrangement on Friday, but Mr Blanchard, who sees in closure a possibility of free sugar, entered an

Emphatic Objection

There probably will be no legislation of any sort to-morrow or Tuesday To-morrow's session will probably be short, affording, more than anything else, opportunity for the Vice President to announce his signature to various bills. A few odds and ends may be cleared up, nothing more than that Tuesday the President will send a message with approval or disapproval of various matters that reach him at the last moment and at the end the session of the 53rd Congress will stand adjourned without day.

But one item of business can be prophesied by the House this week and that is adjournment Tuesday afternoon It is not expected that any business will be transacted in the interim—certainly nothing of importance A few private bills may be passed and some additions made to the calendar upon reports from committees, but this is all

A TERRIFIC FIRE.

Ottawa in Danger and Great Loss of Property Occurs.

OTTAWA, Ont, Aug 26 Fire started here this afternoon in piles of lumber in the suburb of Rochesterville The fire spread rapidly and soon got entirely beyond control, extending towards the city until 6, when the wind changed and then proceeded north and south

The territory covered by the fire is about ten acres On this was between six and eight million feet of lumber, valued at $150,000, railway cars, railway bridge and a school

It is believed the fire was the work of incendiaries Should a heavy wind arise the result would be terrible, as the territory surrounding the fire is covered with lumber piles and wooden houses.

HON LEVI P MORTON

Will Consider Question of Candidacy of Governor of New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 Among the prominent passengers who arrived to-day on the steamer La Normandie, was Hon. Levi P Morton To the newspaper men who sought an interview with Mr. Morton, he made the following statement "I have had no desire to re-enter public life I have received so many letters from personal and political friends in different parts of the State urging me to allow the use of my name as candidate for the governorship, that now I am at home I shall feel it due them and the Republican party to give the question serious consideration."

Mr Morton said that his health was excellent He added that he was going into the country at once and would make his decision within a week.

LOCAL MATTERS.

For Summer Outings.

THE DAILY WHIG will be sent to persons going out of town for any period of time and address changed as often as desired at 15 cents per week, postage paid.

The Campaign

The campaign this year is one of especial importance and interest to the voters of the country Everyone will desire to keep himself informed concerning the progress of the canvass, and for reliable news no better medium can be found than the BANGOR WHIG AND COURIER, with its unrivalled news service From now until after the November elections the WHIG will be sent to any new subscriber, postage free, for fifty cents a month in advance Now is the time to send in your names and keep in close touch with the events of the great political contest

We have received Harper's Magazine for September from D Bugbee & Co

The Sorrento ball team was accompanied to this city Saturday by quite a number of the summer residents

Mr N A Kenney has purchased the Freeze block, so called, on Hammond street, opposite the church, on private terms Mr Freeze proposes to go to California

Quite a heavy shower fell Saturday afternoon, beginning soon after four o clock It was continued at intervals during the evening and night The weather yesterday was pleasant, clear and comfortable

On the outside this morning will be found a very appreciative and just article upon the life and labors of the late Daniel Stickney, formerly of the Presque Isle Sunrise, written by his successor, Mr George W Collins, of the Presque Isle Star-Herald

The United Fellowship will hold a union meeting this evening George L Elwell, Supreme Vice Director and Grand Director of the Grand Council of Massachusetts and George Nickerson, Supreme Past Director of Maine, will be present and address the meeting Members and friends are invited

The funeral services of the late Geoffrey Clifford were held at St. Mary's Catholic church Sunday at 2.30 P M Very Rev Fr O Brien officiated The bearers were all nephews of the deceased, James F and John Hurley, William and John Casey, Thomas and Michael Maney The funeral arrangements were in charge of Finnigan Bros

The many friends in this city of Mrs Eliza Pettinger, of Portland, will regret to learn of her death which took place in that city on Friday Mrs. Pettinger, nee Munger, will be better known here by her former married name of Mrs S S Low Mrs Pettinger has been an invalid for some time, with a rheumatic affection. Her remains were brought to this city and interred beside those of her husband, Mr Low, at Mount Hope, yesterday, services being held at the grave by Rev Mr Ilsley

The White Mountain Echo of Saturday says "The concert given for the benefit of the Congregational Church, North Conway, on Thursday evening was a most enjoyable occasion The assisting artists were Mrs W E Hall, of Brooklyn, N Y, soprano Miss Anna L Mulcahy and orchestra from the Sunset Pavilion, and Miss A B Snowe, reader, Bangor. The resident artists were Mrs. Lisle Mauran, contralto, and Miss Edith M. Chase, pianist, with Mr Joseph A Hills, and Mr Edgar J Smith, of Boston, as organists * * * *

But Miss Snowe fairly took the house by storm in her exquisite style, responding to a recall by the "Kitchen Clock' with piano accompaniment by Mr Hills"

Republican Meeting at Orono

In spite of the prevalence of one of the most severe series of thunder showers for the season, a goodly-sized audience, including quite a number of ladies, assembled in the Town Hall, at Orono, Saturday evening to listen to an address by Representative Boutelle, who drove up and back in the rain to meet the engagement. The meeting was called to order by Hon Charles Buffum, who presided and presented the speaker of the evening in some happily chosen words Mr Boutelle, who was cordially greeted, expressed his appreciation of the courtesy and interest of those present in coming out in so stormy a night, and proceeded in an informal but convincing way to state the issues of the campaign and the relations of the political parties to the interests and prosperity of the people The address was very warmly received, and the spirit manifested gave every assurance that Orono Republicans are fully alive to the importance of the election so close at hand

A Game Law Matter

Mr Sumner L. Crosby, the taxidermist, was before Judge Vose Saturday on complaint of Game Warden Southard, regarding a fawn which was mounted at Mr. Crosby's establishment. The game warden considered that the game laws had been broken as the fawn was obtained and mounted in close time

Mr Crosby's statement is to the effect that the fawn was found drowned in Kennebagee stream which empties into the Rangeley Lakes, by a Boston man and a guide while fishing They could find no scars or bullet holes in the fawn and sent it to Mr. Crosby s branch taxidermy store at the Rangeleys.

From there it was sent to Bangor and mounted at Mr. Crosby's store. Col Jasper Hutchings appeared as counsel for Mr. Crosby. The result of the hearing was that the case was continued. The situation has been communicated to the Boston man, who will doubtless send in reply all the facts at his command in relation to finding the fawn and its condition.

Lawn Party

A correspondent writes. The house and grounds at "Oak Lawn Farm," Stetson, the home of Rev. H. S. Morton, were thrown open to invited guests on Thursday evening and a very pleasant party gathered therein. The lawn was prettily decorated with mosses, ferns and plants, and illuminated by lanterns, lamps and wax lights disposed about the place in tasteful array. The time was spent by the company in strolling about the grounds, or chatting in the wide hospitable rooms, forming new acquaintances and renewing the old, and in good time a bountiful share of refreshments, consisting of cake, coffee, fruit, etc., was served. All too soon came the hour for parting, and in separating the company felt they had spent an agreeable and profitable evening, and that their genial host and hostess were the best of entertainers. There were present friends from Stetson, Levant, North Newport and Haverhill.

Company B Reunion.

At the seventh annual reunion of Co. B, 30th Maine Regiment Veteran Association at Camp Benson last week, the following officers were elected: President, Edward W. Crawford, Burnham; First Vice-President, Alonzo Burrell, Carmel; Second Vice-President, Fred A. Chase, Plymouth; Secretary and Treasurer, Cyrus L. Coffin, Bangor.

A fine dinner was served by the Camp Benson Association, and it was fully appreciated by all who partook.

NORTHERN MAINE SOLDIERS' REUNION.

A Remarkable Gathering of Veterans at Ashland.

The annual encampment of the First Regiment of Northern Maine G. A. R at Ashland, on Aug. 22nd and 23d, proved one of the largest and most interesting reunions ever held by the veterans of Aroostook County. They came from far and near, bringing their wives and children, and the encampment on the beautiful hillside was a scene of much life and interest. On the 23d an address was delivered from the pavilion by Congressman Boutelle, who was afterward tendered a serenade and reception by his comrades and their families The music by the Caribou Cornet Band was of a high order, and the handsome uniforms of the band formed a striking feature of the military exercises Col James H. Phair was elected as Commander of the regiment during the ensuing year Mr Boutelle was generously entertained during his stay at the elegant homestead of Elbridge G Dunn, Esq, on the banks of the beautiful Aroostook River, where quite a family reunion was enjoyed by the visits of the elder Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, of St John, Mr and Mrs Parsons, of Presque Isle, and George T Dunn, Esq, and son, of Houlton.

The encampment was a most successful one, and the veterans will long remember the hospitality of the good people of Ashland

A SLEEPY CONTEST

Sorrentos and Bangors Play a Tie Game

The Bangors had a sleep walking contest with the Sorrentos Saturday at Maplewood Park and nearly 300 spectators were kept very nervous expecting that the Queen City ball tossers would fall off the edge of the ball field before they woke up

It is true that the Bangors were excusable for their somnolent work as they had been on the cars all the previous night coming from Brockton and could not obtain the comfort of a berth, so they were not in the best of condition for a game Then again they underrated their opponents

The Sorrentos are good, lively ball players, but should not have been in it with our team playing ball The story of the game can be summed up in a sentence The Sorrentos played ball our team did not play its customary ball and the result was a tie game, 5 to 5 in seven innings, when the game was stopped by rain

The Bangors did not bat Wood with any great success and the errors which were unusually numerous were costly Fairbanks, of this city played with the Sorrentos and his hard hit through White enabled him to circle the bases

O Brien made his first appearance on first for the Bangors and was warmly applauded upon going to the bat He played a fine game and batted hard

For Sorrento Whittemore made very pretty pick ups Cushing did some timely batting, Dodge did good work at first and Wood pitched a good game

Mr H C Foss of this city umpired The score was as follows

Saturday Fall Rivers at Portland Haverhills at Lewiston

An Associated Press despatch Saturday night said

The Brockton ball team threw up the sponge to night The team will hold together with the hope of playing a benefit game for the players here next Saturday with the New Bedfords

Manager C H Wilson who desired to obtain the franchise for the balance of the season, failed to make satisfactory terms with ex Manager Allen who held out for $1,900 Wilson has managed the team for the players the last five games winning four three straight with Pawtucket, and one out of two with Bangor

The players are in a bad fix and claim that $1600 in salaries is due them and a large board bill is due at the hotel

Manager Allen s store has been attached, as well as the ball ground buildings, on a mechanic s lien, placed by Henry Francis, who erected the fences and buildings Yeager goes to Pawtucket

Pawtucket was offered $2 as a guarantee of to day s game and refused to take it claiming the whole or nothing The receipts this afternoon were $ This was divided among the players to night

It is rumored to night that the Haverhills will be transferred here

The third game between Mt Kineo House and Guilford Saturday was a victory for the Kineo nine by a score of 18 to 11 Kineo taking two of the three games

The Portlands Pawtuckets, Lewistons and Bangors are closely bunched in standing in the league and it will be a hard fight between them as there are not many more games Fall River is again booked for first place and Haverhill has a good lead for second place although that team can be displaced Third position can be secured by any of the other teams

The Bangors go by buckboard to day to Old Town to play the Old Towns They will receive the entire gate receipts

The Bangor management are after Braham, the fine pitcher of the defunct Brocktons, and hope to secure him to day O'Neil failed to report with the team at Boston Friday as he promised he having gone home owing to the illness of his wife, he claimed

The game Saturday did not quite pay expenses and one of the directors facetiously and pertinently remarked that the "benefit' game was a benefit for the policemen

Regimental Association Formed

At Camp Benson last week members of seven companies of the 30th Maine Regiment organized a regimental association The companies were B, C, D, F, G, J and K, and companies A, I and H have been invited to attend the next meeting The following officers were elected President, James F Weymouth, Gardiner Vice President, Joseph A Glaizin, Gardiner, Secretary and Treasurer, Cyrus L Coffin, Bangor The following were appointed as an executive committee of the regiment William R Locke Etna Joseph A Glaizin, Gardiner, Edward W Crawford, Burnham, James L Weymouth, Gardiner, Cyrus L Coffin, Bangor, N A Dutton, Waterville, A S Dodge, Waterville, P H Pease New port

He spent the Sabbath among his old friends at Winterport and then returned to his work as pastor of the M. E. church, Bay View, Mass. He is in good health and very much pleased with his present field of labor.

FATAL ACCIDENT

John W Milton Killed at Millinocket

Mr John W Milton, of this city, was killed at Millinocket Saturday morning as the result of a somewhat peculiar accident He was employed by Chief Constructor C P Treat as night foreman and had charge of the cleaning of locomotives besides other duties

Early Saturday morning two engines were standing headed the same direction, and Mr Milton was asleep upon the running board, or top of the cow catcher, of the second engine A locomotive which had been to Houlton with a load of sleepers backed down upon the siding upon which the other engines were standing and struck the first locomotive which in turn ran against the second one upon which Mr Milton was

In some way Mr Milton was killed It is supposed that having completed the cleaning of the locomotive he laid down to sleep it being warm in front of the boiler He had been an engineer on the B & A road and was 41 years 3 months and 6 days of age He leaves a widow two children and also an aged mother and two sisters in the West He belonged to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Odd Fellows The funeral will occur to-day at 2 P M at his late residence No 1 Baxter s court

AMUSEMENTS

The Dazzler

To night Cosgrove & Grant s comedians in The Dazzler will be seen at the Opera House Although an annual visitor to this city for a number of years past The Dazzler has never worn out its welcome and this season it is confidently anticipated that it will be received with renewed favor The piece has been entirely rewritten

The company including as it does Hortie West Charlie Wayne Luella Wagner Mason and Rolston the Dewitt sisters and Belle West shows that the company s quite up to its former strength in that department It ot a little better than ever before Novel and elaborate scenery is promised also entirely new wardrobe and music throughout With the success that Messrs Cosgrove & Grant have had in the past in striking the popular taste with their bright farce comedy a pleasing performance is expected

At The Norombega

To night the Lillian Tucker company will begin a week s engagement at The Norombega giving a change of bill each night To night s play will be The Lawyer Detective The Mt Pleasant (Mich) Dem says

Charles C Vaughn company of players headed by Miss Lillian Tucker opened a week s engagement at the Opera House Monday night They are giving eminent satisfaction to our theater goers Every member of the company is good and the plays rendered have been done in an admirable manner Miss Tucker the leading lady captivated the audience on Monday evening and the admiration has increased with each succeeding performance

We are glad to note they are doing the splendid business that they deserve

The Circus Clown

To morrow night The Circus Clown will begin a four nights engagement at the Opera House The Circus Clown is a comedy drama from the pen of Fred J Beaman and it is the vehicle that will introduce George Richards and Eugene Canfield surrounded by a well chosen company in the role of co-stars Both Richards and Canfield have been so long identified with Chas Hoyt s successes, namely The Temperance Town The Midnight Bell and others, that it seems almost as if they belonged to that author s attractions They have decided however upon a production of their own and in conjunction with Manager A Q Scammon have selected The Circus Clown as best adapted to their requirements The piece is a three act comedy drama full of funny situations It is said and a strong humane interest It is a story of circus life without the circus performance The tents are there and the performers but the ring and the animals are missing The clown and the working force the performers men and women are all in evidence

Mr. Leonard Moulton, of East Bucksport, was in the city Saturday.

Mrs. R. E. Jones and daughter have returned home from Northport.

Mrs. Benjamin B. Merrill has been spending a short time down river.

Mrs. Roderick Sutherland returned home Saturday from a visit in Portland.

Miss Beverly, of Massachusetts, is making a visit with friends in East Orrington.

Mrs. Joshua Ryder and Miss Grace Bartlett have returned from a stay at Northport.

The schooner Charlotte Morgan is undergoing some repairs on the beach at Bucksport.

The next regular meeting of the City Council occurs on Thursday evening of next week.

Mr. Babcock, of Galesbury, Ill., has been visiting with Mr. Manly Hardy, on Wilson street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Burr went down river in the steamer City of Bangor Saturday for a stay.

The monthly missionary concert at the First Congregational vestry occurs next Sunday evening.

Mr. James Coffey, Jr., of Tacoma, Wash., is visiting his father in the neighboring town of Eddington.

Mr. W. B. Smith and family, of Green's Landing, are making a visit with relatives in East Orrington.

The Christian Endeavor societies in the city hold their regular monthly consecration meetings next Sunday.

The regular monthly meeting of the First Congregational Society is to occur in the vestry next Friday evening.

Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Rogers, of Savannah, Ga., are spending their vacation at their old home at Orrington Center.

Miss Grace Parker, who has been visiting in Orrington for a time, has returned to her home in East Bucksport.

Mrs. Frank Lewis, of North Weymouth, Mass., who has been visiting in this vicinity, has returned to her home.

Mrs. M. E. Muling and children, who have been making a stay of several weeks at Cape Rozier, have returned home.

Mrs. T. H. McFarland and daughter, Bessie, returned home to Guilford Saturday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wallis.

A party of Brewer young people and visitors enjoyed a buckboard ride into the country Saturday, and passed a very pleasant day.

Miss Mattie Varnum, of New London, Conn., who has been visiting in the city, went to Brooksville Saturday, to complete her summer's stay there.

The assessors are to be in session at the Treasurer's room at City Hall next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, to consider applications for abatements in taxes.

A large number of Brewer people who have been attending the campmeeting at Northport or spending a larger time there, have returned home during the past few days.

This is fair week in Bangor and many Brewer people are making preparations to entertain friends who will come for the double purpose of making a visit and attending the fair.

Mrs. C. A. Weeks, of South Brewer, leaves on this evening's train for Alexandria, Indiana, to join her husband who is engaged in putting in a system of water works there.

Mr. Hugh Smith had his arm bitten by a horse Saturday morning, the animal seizing the member and biting so viciously as to require a physician's services to dress the wounds. No serious results are apprehended however.

Mr. C. A. Washburn has presented the First Congregational church with a very handsome pulpit chair for the vestry and the elegant piece of furniture was used yesterday for the first time. The generosity of the giver is greatly appreciated and the chair much admired.

The three nights' coffee party at the new Catholic church at South Brewer closed Saturday evening. The closing evening was marked by another large attendance and was a very pleasant occasion, the entertainment, programme being a most enjoyable one and other features ably and successfully carried out. The coffee party has been a great success and much credit is due those who have arranged it for this and the goodly sum of money raised. The proceeds go towards the finishing of the new church edifice.

ODDITIES OF SCOTCHMEN.

Some Delightful Peculiarities Pointed Out by an Excellent Authority.

Some delightful oddities of Scotch character are given in Wilmot Harrison's new book, says The Scottish American.

Professor Adam Ferguson, the author of "Roman History," at whose house Burns and Scott met for the first and only time, eschewed wine and animal food, "but huge masses of milk and vegetables disappeared before him. In addition, his temperature was regulated by Fahrenheit, and often, when sitting quite comfortably, he would start up and put his wife and daughters in commotion because his eye had fallen on the instrument and he was a degree too hot or too cold." Yet at the age of 72 he started for Italy with but a single companion to prepare for a new edition of his "Roman History," nor did he die till he had attained the age of 92.

Another "character" is Dr. Alexander Adam, rector of the high school and author of a work on Roman antiquities and a man of extraordinary industry. When at college, he lived on oatmeal and small beans, with an occasional penny loaf, in a lodging which cost him fourpence a week. In later life he devoted himself absolutely to the work of teaching. In addition to his classes in the high school he appears to have had for his private pupils some of the most eminent Scotchmen of his day.

Rev. Sir Henry Wellwood Moncreiff, a member of a Scottish family distinguished during several generations in connection both with church and state, appears to have given wonderful Sunday suppers. "This most admirable and somewhat old fashioned gentleman was one of those who always dined between sermons, probably without touching wine. He then walked back from his small house in the east end of Queen street to his church, with his bands, his little cocked hat, his tall cane and his cardinal air; preached, if it was his turn, a sensible, practical sermon, walked home in the same style, took tea about 5, spent some hours in his study, at 9 had family prayers, at which he was delighted to see the friends of his sons, after which the whole party sat down to roasted hares, goblets of wine and his powerful talk."

Indian corn, or maize, never has an uneven number of rows of grains, because it has opposite radicals of growth from the cob center.

FROM THE RANKS.

By CAPTAIN CHARLES KING.

[Copyright, 1894, by the J. B. Lippincott Co.]

Jerrold's face was growing gray and sickly. He stared at the stern eyes before him and could make no answer. His lips moved dryly, but made no sound.

"Come, I want to hear from you. Where were you if not with or seeking her? Name your place and witnesses."

"By God, Captain Armitage, the army is no longer a place for a gentleman if his every movement is to be spied upon like this!"

"The world is no place for a man of your stamp is perhaps a better way of putting it," said Armitage, whose fingers were twitching convulsively, and whose whole frame quivered with the effort he was making to restrain the rage and indignation that consumed him. He could not—he would not—believe in her guilt. He must have this man's proof, no matter how it might damn him for good and all, no matter whom else it might involve, so long as it cleared her precious name. He must be patient, he must be calm and resolute, but the man's cold blooded, selfish, criminal concealment nearly maddened him. With infinite effort he controlled himself and went on:

"But it is of her I'm thinking, not of you. It is the name you have compromised and can clear and should clear, even at the expense of your own—in fact, Mr. Jerrold, must clear. Now will you tell me where you were and how you can prove it?"

"I decline to say. I won't be cross questioned by men who have no authority. Captain Chester said he would refer it to the colonel, and when he asks I will answer—not until then."

"I ask in his name. I am authorized by him, for he is not well enough to meet the ordeal."

"You say so, and I don't mean to dispute your word, Captain Armitage, but I have a right to demand some proof. How am I to know he authorized you?"

"He himself gave me this letter, in your handwriting," said Armitage, and opening the long envelope he held forth the missive over which the poor old colonel had gone nearly wild. "He found it the morning they left—in her garden."

If Jerrold's face had been gray before, it was simply ghastly now. He recoiled from the sight after one fruitless effort to grasp the letter, then rallied with unlooked for spirit:

"By heaven, Armitage, suppose I did write that letter? What does it prove but what I say—that somebody has been prying and spying into my affairs? How came the colonel by it if not by fraud or treachery?"

"He picked it up in the garden, I tell you, among the rosebushes, where she—where Miss Renwick—had been but a few moments before, and where it might appear that she had dropped it."

"She! That letter! What had she to do with it? What right had she to read it?"

Armitage stepped impulsively forward. A glad, glorious light was bursting upon his soul. He could almost have seized Jerrold's hand and thanked him, but proofs, proofs were what he needed. It was not his mind that was to be convinced; it was "society" that must be satisfied of her utter innocence, that it might be able to say, "Well, I never for a moment believed a word of it." Link by link the chain of circumstantial evidence must be destroyed, and this was only one.

"You mean that that letter was not intended for Miss Renwick?" he asked, with eagerness he strove hard to repress.

"It was never meant for anybody," said Jerrold, the color coming back to his face and courage to his eyes. "That letter was never sent by me to any woman. It's my writing, of course—I can't deny that—but I never even meant it to go. If it left that desk, it must have been stolen. I've been hunting high and low for it. I knew that such a thing lying around loose would be the cause of mischief. God! is that what all this fuss is about?" And he looked warily, yet with infinite anxiety, into his captain's eyes.

"There is far more to it, as you well know, sir," was the stern answer. "For whom was this written if not for her? It won't do to half clear her name."

"Answer me this, Captain Armitage. Do you mean that that letter has compromised Miss Renwick; that it is she whose name has been involved, and that it was of her that Chester meant to speak?"

"Certainly it was—and I too."

There was an instant's silence; then Jerrold began to laugh nervously:

"Oh, well, I fancy it isn't the first time the revered and respected captain has got away off the track. All the same, I do not mean to overlook his language to me, and I may say right now, Captain Armitage, that yours, too, calls for an explanation."

"You shall have it in short order, Mr. Jerrold, and the sooner you understand the situation the better. So far as I am concerned, Miss Renwick needed no defender; but, thanks to your mysterious and unwarranted absence from quarters two very unlucky nights, and to other circumstances I have no need to name, and to your penchant for letter writing of a most suggestive character, it is Miss Renwick whose name has been brought into question here at this post and most prominently so. In plain words, Mr. Jerrold, you who brought this trouble upon her by your own misconduct must clear her, no matter at whose expense, or"——

"Or what?"

"I make no threats. I prefer that you should make the proper explanations from a proper sense of what is due."

"And suppose I say that no man is called upon to explain a situation which has been distorted and misrepresented by the evil imagination of his fellows?"

"Then I may have to wring the truth out of you—and will; but, for her sake, I want as little publicity as possible. After this display on your part I am not bound to show you any consideration whatever. Understand this, however—the array of evidence that you were feloniously inside Colonel Maynard's quarters that night and at his cottage window last night is of such a character that a court would convict you unless your alibi was conclusive. Leave the service you certainly shall unless this whole thing is cleared up."

"I never was anywhere near Colonel Maynard's either last night or the other night I was absent."

"You will have to prove it. Mere denials won't help you in the face of such evidence as we have that you were there the first time."

"What evidence?"

"The photograph that was stolen from Mrs. Maynard between 2 and 4 o'clock that morning was seen in your drawer by Major Sloat at reveille. You were fool enough to show it to him."

"Captain Armitage, I shall be quite able to show, when the proper time comes, that the photograph I showed Major Sloat was not stolen. It was given me."

"That is beyond belief, Mr. Jerrold, once and for all understand this case. You have compromised her good name by the very mystery of your actions. You have it in your power to clear her by proving where you were, since you were not near her; by showing how you got that photograph; by explaining how you came to write so strange a letter. Now I say to you, will you do it instantly, or must we wring it from you?"

A sneering smile was the only answer for a moment, then:

"I shall take great pleasure in confounding my enemies should the matter be brought before a court. I'm sure if the colonel can stand that sort of thing I can, but as for defending myself or anybody else from utterly unjust and proofless suspicions it's quite another thing."

"Good God, Jerrold, do you realize what a position you are taking? Do you"—

"Oh, not at all, captain," was the airy reply, "not at all. It is not a position I have taken. It is one into which you misguided conspirators have forced me. I certainly am not required to compromise anybody else in order to relieve a suspicion which you, not I, have created. How do you know that there may not be some other woman whose name I propose to guard? You have been really very flattering in your theories so far."

Armitage could bear no more. The airy conceit and insolence of the man overcame all self restraint and resolution. With one bound he was at his throat, his strong white hands grasping him in a sudden, viselike grip, then hurling him with stunning, thundering force to the floor. Down, headlong, went the tall lieutenant, his sword clattering by his side, his slim brown hands clutching wildly at anything that might bear him up, and dragging with him in his catastrophe a rack of hunting ponches, antlers and one heavy double barreled shotgun. All came tumbling down about the struggling form, and Armitage, glaring down at him with clinching fists and rasping teeth, had only time to utter one deep drawn malediction when he noted that the struggles ceased, and Jerrold lay quite still. Then the blood began to ooze from a jagged cut near the temple, and it was evident that the hammer of the gun had struck him.

With one bound he was at his throat.

Another moment and the door opened, and with anxious face Chester strode into the room. "You haven't killed him, Armitage? Is it as bad as that?"

"Pick him up, and we'll get him on the bed. He's only stunned. I didn't even hit him. Those things tumbled afterward," said Armitage as between them they raised the dead weight of the slender Adonis in their arms and bore him to the bedroom. Here they bathed the wound with cold water and removed the uniform coat, and presently the lieutenant began to revive and look about him.

"Who struck me?" he faintly asked.

"Your shotgun fell on your head, but I threw you down, Jerrold. I'm sorry I touched you, but you're lucky it was no worse. This thing is going to raise a big bump here. Shall I send the doctor?"

"No; I'll come round presently. We'll see about this thing afterward."

"Is there any friend you want to see? Shall I send word to anybody?" asked Chester.

"No; don't let anybody come. Tell my striker to bring my breakfast, but I want nothing tonight but to be let alone."

"At least you will let me help you undress and get to bed?" said Chester.

"No; I wish you'd go—both of you. I want quiet—peace—and there's none of it with either of you."

And so they left him. Later Captain Chester had gone to the quarters and after much parleying from without had gained admission. Jerrold's head was bound in a bandage wet with arnica and water. He had been solacing himself with a pipe and a whisky toddy and was in a not unnaturally ugly mood.

"You may consider yourself excused from duty until your face is well again, by which time this matter will be decided. I admonish you to remain here and not leave the post until it is."

"You can prefer charges and see what you'll make of it," was the vehement reply. "Devil a bit will I help you out of the thing after this night's work."

The Drug Store Telephone.

"Accommodation bureaus are all right when they are conducted as such," said a west side druggist, "but the sign over my door was intended to inform the public that drugs were dispensed within and not information doled out or telephone messages delivered blocks away. I make no kick when stamps are asked for and the city directory consulted by people, but when they ring up the telephone and call me from my work to answer it and then want a message delivered to a friend living a long distance from the store only a certificate of membership in the Antiswearing club which I have pasted on the transmitter keeps me from uttering fancy language. This morning I was at the breakfast table and was called to the phone. I found it was a lady who patronized me about once a month. She didn't talk plainly and kept me guessing for 15 minutes what she was driving at. I discovered that she wanted me to tell her next door neighbor that she wouldn't be home to dinner and ask her to open a window of the house and 'for mercy sake feed the poor little cat.' The telephone has been removed."—Buffalo Enquirer.

SOME GREAT BARGAINS!

WE HAVE

29 Suits of Clothes,

SIZES 33 TO 36,

Cost from $10.00 to $15.00 Each,

WHICH WE SHALL SELL FOR

$5.00 Each!

Our reason for selling them so cheap is that they are small sizes and we want to clean up our stock and get our cash out of them as soon as possible.

Do Not Tarry Long

After reading this but hasten to THE LEADING MARKET and order some of those DELICIOUS TOMATOES that I have just received from the MAINE STATE COLLEGE. Remember that is the only place where you can get these tomatoes in Bangor.

I will also receive another large lot of KITTREDGE'S SWEET BLACK CORN, and a FULL LINE OF ALL KINDS OF FRESH FISH this morning.

Now don't fail to call at
